DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 76-114 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed method of consumer advertising does not recite a useful, concrete and tangible result under In re Alappat, 31 USPQ2d 1545 (Fed. Cir. 1994) and State Street Bank & Trust Co. v. Signature Financial Group Inc., 47 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed Cir. 1998). The independently claimed invention contain recitations of descriptive material that cannot exhibit any functional interrelationship with the way in which computing process are performed and does not constitute a statutory process, machine, manufacture or composition of matter under 35 USC 101. The independently claimed steps are claimed as merely data and information gathering and processing steps which do not involve manipulation of that data with a structural element Because the independently claimed invention is directed to non-functional descriptive material which does not produce a useful, concrete and tangible result, those claims and claims depending from them, are not permitted under 35 USC 101 because the invention is considered non-statutory subject matter.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 115-121 are allowed while claims 76-114 are allowable over the prior art. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance for the claims over the prior art: the claimed invention including either feature of an advertisement discretionary element retrieval which includes a selection of target market characteristics not typically associated with any one of an advertised item, target market characteristics with heuristic rules, and not directly identifiable from consumer transactions or a linear operation on a subset of consumers to generate targeting information. The feature of advertisement discretionary element retrieval which includes a selection of target market characteristics not typically associated with any one of target market characteristics with heuristic rules, not directly identifiable from consumer transaction records, and target market characteristics not typically associated with an item being advertised an advertised item, target market characteristics with heuristic rules is found in each of the independent claims 76 (target market characteristics with heuristic rules), 86 (not directly identifiable from consumer transaction records), and 92 (target market characteristics not typically associated with an item being advertised) respectively. While the feature linear operation on a subset of consumers to generate targeting information is found in each of independent claims 110 and 115. The closest prior art is applicants' patent US 6,216,129 rejected by the examiner while the most relevant foreign reference and not patent literature is considered WO 98/34189 and US 2003/0004810 none of which expressly or implicitly teach the independently claimed advertisement discretionary element retrieval or linear operation.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP

Art Unit: 3622

§ 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
